RECORD

Category: Drama
Producer: Dylan Reibling
Director: Dylan Reibling
Running Time: 4:33

'A sidewalk record sale takes an emotional turn when a chance musical discovery yields a powerful response. Based on a true story.'

The short film Record is a work of art and an excellent example of how films that run under 5 minutes can still be entertaining. This length is a format many may not be all that familiar with, but it should not discourage anyone from viewing it.

Record is a wonderful film that in its short running time tells a story, shows the depth of the characters and makes the audience care about what is happening.

Although it has no dialogue at all, being that the plot is about the sale of a record, the mood is brought out in the music and the characters actions. This puts greater emphasis on the performances of the actors and talent of the director.

Dylan Reibling definitely excels in the direction of this piece. In fact, the Yorkton Film Festival Jury of 2009 selected Dylan for the Best Director (Fiction) award -- an award in the future Dylan will probably keep at a closer distance.

Along with great direction, the actors delivered very powerful performances that both created tension and comedy in this very interesting and dynamic film. A film worth watching that won't even take much time.
